Surrounding communities to be included in history book

Residents of surrounding communities will be able to include their family stories in Hoopeston's history book.

All residents of the Hoopeston Area school district, including Wellington, East Lynn, Cheneyville and Rankin, may submit histories for the book, said Jean Minick, co-coordinator of the project.

Minick made the announcement at Monday's Community Involvement Committee meeting.

Families have until the end of April to submit their histories to the Hoopeston Chamber of Commerce office in the third floor of the Palmer Bank Building, 210 S. Market.

Thus far, approximately 280 family histories have been submitted for the book, Minick said.

Not only has the area covered been expanded and the deadline for submitting histories been extended, but the two-payment program has also been extended until the end of April, Benjamin said. Until April 30, those wishing to order a history book may pay $25 by April 30, with the balance due Oct. 1. Those ordering after April 30 must pay the full $50 cost.

Book publishers will meet with workers on April 24, said Judy Benjamin, Chamber office manager and book project co-coordinator. The meeting is set for 7 p.m., and tentatively will be at city hall.

In other community news:

Alta Goodrum, president of the Grant Township Food Cupboard board, said the cupboard provided food for 56 families or 139 people.

This month's needs include carrots, chili beans, tomatoes, applesauce, any canned fruits and household products, she said.

this is National Library Week at the Hoopeston Public Library, said head librarian Lou Graham.

For last-minute filers, the library has 1040 and 1040EZ forms available, Graham said.
